

DickinsonAlert will be launching in Dickinson County on Monday, March 23. It is a part of AlertIowa which is managed by the Iowa Homeland Security and Emergency Management Department (HSEMD). This system will allow public safety officials in Dickinson County to send out alerts to the public. These alerts can be sent via e-mail, text message or by an actual phone call and can be sent to specific geographical areas or countywide. When citizens register for the system, they can choose which weather watches and warnings they would like to receive from the DickinsonAlert system. These notifications will be sent via e-mail and/or text message. Some alerts, such as tornado warnings and high wind warnings, will result in an actual phone call being made to whichever phone number you designate for receiving voice calls. Aside from weather watches and warnings, each city in Dickinson County has also agreed to utilize the system to send out emergency alerts to their residents. When you register for DickinsonAlert you can choose which city or cities you would like to receive notifications from. Registration for DickinsonAlert is done online through the Dickinson County Emergency Management website at www.dcem.us. If you need assistance with this or don't have Internet access at your home, you may sign up at one of the five libraries in Dickinson County. You can also get help at the emergency management office by calling 712-336-3987 or e-mailing mehret@co.dickinson.ia.us.
